NSW PUBLIC HEALTH BULLETIN

The NSW Public Health Bulletin is a publication of the NSW Department of Health. The editor is Dr Lynne Madden BSc(Med)Hons 1, MBBS, MPH, MSc, MFPH, FAFPHM. The assistant editor is Ms Carlie Naylor. The Bulletin provides population health data and information to support public health action. The Bulletin is indexed by Medline and Index Medicus.

Submission of articles

A Bulletin article should be about 1500 words, not including tables and figures. News, comments and other reports should be 500–600 words. All articles should include a short introductory abstract that reflects the structure of the paper. References should be set out in Vancouver style (see www.nlm.nih.gov/bsd/uniform_requirements.html). Send submitted manuscripts on paper and in electronic form, either on disc (preferably Word for Windows) or by email. The paper copy must be accompanied by a letter signed by all the authors. Full instructions for authors are available on request from the editorial office.
